

Finger food ideas: don't go broke over toddler Puffs®

✖ Got a baby starting on table foods and out of ideas? You don't have to go broke over buying toddler Puffs®.

Babies and young toddlers don't have a lot of teeth. In fact, a full set of teeth does not come in until around two years of age. In the meantime, to help your new eater avoid choking, cut up food into tiny pieces. Now, sawing at food with a knife is not easy. Meet your new friend: the kitchen shears! Use shears to snip food into perfect toddler bite-sized pieces.

Cut table food into bite-sized pieces smaller than a grape, or approximately Cheerio® sized, and place on a clean surface, such as the high chair tray. Plates are not necessary and often end up on the floor. Go ahead and give your toddler a fork but don't expect him to use it- most toddlers are eighteen months before they can master a fork or spoon. Always be present when he is eating in case he starts to choke. Toddlers tend to put a handful of food in their mouth at one time, so teach your child to eat pieces of food "one at a time."

Forget the toddler-food aisle, just grab your shears and cut away. Below are finger-food ideas to help you get started. These foods are appropriate for babies who are able to finger-feed, starting anywhere between 7 to 9 months of age, even without teeth:

- canned mandarin oranges
- fruit cocktail (in juice, not syrup)
- bananas
- diced peaches

diced pears
diced mellon
diced berries, cut blueberries in half at first diced cooked apples
raw tomato pieces
avocado

beef stew
liverwurst cut into small pieces diced cooked meat
Cooked, diced chicken
Diced cooked salmon, tilapia, mahi-mahi, flounder (careful to discard any bones) tofu (extra-firm is easiest to cut) black beans, cooked or canned (rinse off the salty sauce they come in) egg salad or hard-boiled egg pieces bits of scrambled egg soft cheese- such as American or Munster vegetable soup (just scoop out the veggies and give them to your child. You can put the broth into a cup for him to drink) diced cooked veggies such as peas, carrots, corn, broccoli, zucchini, etc.

diced cucumbers
cooked diced squash

cooked diced potatoes, sweet potatoes, or yams rice
noodles
pierogies
mini ravioli
macaroni and cheese
waffles
pancakes
french toast

crackers with cream cheese toast with jelly

toast with nut-butter (soy, peanut, almond, sunflower, etc.)

stuffing

Cheerios®

Bon appetite!
